

Annual Report 2017

Report to our community, 2017

(July 1, 2016 - June 30, 2017)

As recognized leaders in regional conservation we are grounded in our history yet always looking ahead. Whether training the leaders of tomorrow, informing policy makers with solid science or protecting thousands of acres of valuable habitat, we follow the values that ACR has held over the past 55 years.

Fiscal Year 2017 revealed an organization driven to employ innovative approaches to both our flagship programs and our newest initiatives. By year end, Living with Lions, our community conservation project had collared five mountain lions, revealing for the first time fascinating data on our region's elusive carnivores. In May of 2017, ACR's Fire Forward initiative called on partnerships built with CAL FIRE, local fire agencies, land managers and others to collaboratively conduct a flawless prescribed fire event, treating 18 acres of oak woodland and grassland of the Bouverie Preserve to the long-term benefits of fire. Although none of us could imagine the wildfire that would devastate the region a few short months later, the seeds of understanding how to (re)build fire-adapted communities had been firmly planted by our program.

Nature Education Program achievements in 2017

School Programs

ACR School Programs provide docent-led nature hikes to elementary school students of San Francisco, Marin, Sonoma, Napa, Alameda and Contra Costa counties. Docents work closely with teachers, bring hands-on learning centers and a slide presentation to classrooms, and provide curriculum materials. In 2017, ACR school programs:

- Engaged 5,359 students from 87 San Francisco Bay Area schools in nature education at the Martin Griffin and Bouverie preserves. Over half (52%) of these students were on the free/reduced lunch program. 35% were English Language learners. Utilized adapted education materials for one special needs class. Hosted overnight 188 students from 6 inner-city classes.
- Granted $43,792 in bus scholarships, ensuring that no school was left behind for financial reasons.
- Immersed 11 young women aged 14-17 in ACR's Conservation Science Intensive (55% white, 18% Asian, 18% multiracial, 9% Hispanic); five days with one overnight, two peer mentors from previous years
- Graduated 28 fifth graders from the Bouverie Preserve's Juniper Program. Candidates distinguished themselves by showing unusual interest in the natural world during a Bouverie Preserve School Program field trip. A Stewardship Day was added to the Training, during which trainees monitored nest boxes, transplanted native grasses, and removed invasive plants.
- 33 Junipers completed Advanced Juniper Training, 58 Junipers co-led seventeen guided nature walks and twilight hikes attended by members of the public, 30 Junipers counted newts for ACR's 31-year study of newts on the preserve, and 50 Junipers participated in Juniper Adventures (three day-time and two overnight educational opportunities).
- Juniper Internship Program recruited its first winter intern.
- Presented the Quercus Quire at 18 Bay Area schools.
- Linked ACR Education Programs to Next Generation Science Standards. In fiscal year 2017, a project was completed cross referencing ACR's School Program with Next Generation Science Standards and Common Core. The resulting matrix is now provided to teachers as part of the materials they receive.
- Delivered a new mountain lion program to 222 first–third graders.

Gwen Heistand,
Director of Education and 2017 recipient of the Terwilliger
Environmental Award

Public Programs

ACR provides opportunities for community members to explore and learn about nature on our preserves. This year, public programs:

- Welcomed 1,350 visitors for expert-led hikes, conservation talks and nature connection-themed events.

Adult Education

ACR offers lifelong learning and personal development opportunities that improve the quality of life for ACR volunteers of all ages. In 2017, ACR:

- Trained and graduated 17 new Martin Griffin Preserve docents and 14 nature guides.
- Offered six Advanced Docent Training classes at the Bouverie Preserve.
- Hosted the popular Quercus Quarterly lecture series at the Bouverie Preserve.

Conservation Science achievements in 2017

Heron and Egret Project

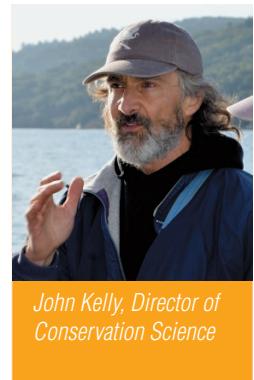

- ACR conducted its 27th consecutive year of monitoring the status of nesting herons and egrets—at all known colony sites in the northern San Francisco Bay Area
- Completed our 41st year of monitoring all heron and egret nesting attempts in Bolinas Lagoon
- Updated ACR's regional atlas and online Google-Earth program showing the locations and status of individual heronries
- Established GIS metrics for a statewide assessment of heron and egret nesting habitat requirements and associated conservation needs throughout California
- Launched the Heron & Egret Telemetry Project, using GPS telemetry to track the movements, regional landscape use and foraging behaviors of egrets and herons throughout the San Francisco Bay Area
- Produced ACR technical reports on the status of individual heronries at Bolinas Lagoon, DeSilva Island (Marin County), Gold Hill (Suisun Marsh), and Marin Islands National Wildlife Refuge
- Consulted on conservation action activities to protect several heronries, including activities by the Golden Gate Audubon Society to protect Black-crowned Night-Herons that nest in the City of Oakland.

Tomales Bay Waterbird Survey

- Completed ACR's 28th year of monitoring the status of wintering water birds in Tomales Bay

- The importance of Pacific herring to wintering waterbirds. We completed the analysis for a long-term study demonstrating a strong dependence by wintering waterbird populations in Tomales Bay on the spawning activities of Pacific herring, an ecologically important species of forage fish along our coast

- Diurnal movement of wintering waterbirds in Tomales Bay. John Kelly collaborated with Steve Albert of the Institute for Bird Populations on a recent ACR Technical Report measuring the daily movements of wintering waterbirds entering and leaving Tomales Bay

John Kelly, Director of Conservation Science

Tomales Bay Shorebird Census

- Completed ACR's 28th year of monitoring the use of Tomales Bay by wintering and migrating shorebirds.

Songbirds of the Central Mayacamas Mountains

- Completed the sixth year of avian point-count surveys, quantifying the densities and occurrence of nesting songbirds
- Identified the appropriate modeling approach and began initial data screening for a scientific paper on avian habitat values in the central Mayacamas Mountains.

Publication of the Ardeid

- Redesigned and expanded The Ardeid from 16 to 20 pages.

In March 2017, ACR's mountain lion team discovered triplets born to P1, the first mountain lion captured and GPS-tracked by the study. Below, ACR Resource Ecologist Julianne Bradbury introduces hikers to the diversity of amphibian life on Modini Mayacamas Preserves.

Stewardship achievements in 2017

Fire Forward

- Launched Fire Forward program in January 2017 to facilitate a renewed approach to our relationship with fire in the North Bay area
- Conducted three prescribed fires at ACR's Bouvierie Preserve, in cooperation with CAL FIRE, offering a training opportunity for fire fighters from 14 agencies, and addressing fuel management and ecological restoration.

Jeanne Wirk,
Director of Stewardship

Living with Lions

- Fitted five mountain lions (four females and one male) with GPS collars under a permit issued by the California Department of Fish and Wildlife
- Developed curriculum materials to integrate into our School Program, trained our volunteers on how to interact with children and adults about mountain lion ecology, and reached over 1,200 people in 2017 through public presentations.

Climate Resilience Assessments

- Conducted a hydro-geomorphological assessment of the coastal flood plains in the four main canyons of ACR's Martin Griffin Preserve on Bolinas Lagoon.

Habitat Restoration and invasive species removal

- Conducted habitat restoration projects and/or invasive species control at all of our preserves and surrounding habitats.

The Generous ACR Community in 2017

ACR is grateful to the over 1,300 individuals, businesses and organizations that made financial and in-kind gifts from July 1, 2016 to June 30, 2017. ACR members, designated with an asterisk below, enjoy special benefits while expressing their commitment to the ACR mission. Your generosity makes it possible for ACR to protect nature through land preservation, nature education and conservation science programs. We thank you.

We also wish to thank the ACR Board of Directors, who made personal financial gifts to ACR in addition to their gifts of time and leadership.

In June 2017, ACR's researchers tagged three Great Egrets and launched the Heron and Egret Telemetry Project, tracking these wetland predators year-round in the first study of its kind in the Western U.S. The results will increase the region's understanding of the health of wetlands and marshes.

2017's newly-minted class of Martin Griffin Preserve docents gather with Director of Education Gwen Heistand and Education Specialist Eileen Shanahan.

Our programs and preserves thrive because of volunteers

Audubon Canyon Ranch salutes the hundreds of individuals listed below for their dedication to ACR and for generously donating time and energy as docents, nature guides, hosts, field biologists, citizen scientists, stewards, work day volunteers, directors, emeritus directors and advisors. You are the backbone of this organization.
